It was a beautiful summer day and the willows hung in a pale green fringe above the water, and Bill and I were very young, and very much in love.

But there seemed to be so many obstacles in our path. Bill wanted to be a doctor, and it took such a long time. I was to go away to Teachers' College in the fall. We began to feel depressed.

Then it occurred to us to ask the advice of Mr. Thornton, our new minister. He hadn't been at our church very long and he was young for the responsibilities he had assumed. But as we sat in his office, I knew right away that here was someone who could help us face our

Well, I can't say his advice made us happy. He said that Bill should go on with his education and I with mine, and that God would give us courage.

Time proved him right. I told him that, the day he married us. Ten years have passed since then. But on that Sunday afternoon, Mr. Thornton truly put the Church into our lives. We're never going to take it out.

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship.

It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It was a beautiful summer day and the willows hung in a pale green fringe above the water, and Bill and I were very young, and very much in love.

But there seemed to be so many obstacles in our path. Bill wanted to be a doctor, and it took such a long time. I was to go away to Teachers' College in the fall. We began to feel depressed.

Then it occurred to us to ask the advice of Mr. Thornton, our new minister. He hadn't been at our church very long and he was young for the responsibilities he had assumed. But as we sat in his office, I knew right away that here was someone who could help us face our

Well, I can't say his advice made us happy. He said that Bill should go on with his education and I with mine, and that God would

Time proved him right. I told him that, the day he married us. Ten years have passed since then. But on that Sunday afternoon, Mr. Thornton truly put the Church into our lives. We're never going to

The Beginning...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Red Trade Threat In The Cold War

Nowhere is the tremendous economic offensive of the Communist bloc more evident than in Asia. Not only is Russia heavily involved but Red China is making headway in markets once dominated by either Japan or Western nations.

China has adopted a peculiarly American device of credit selling to the under-developed nations of Indonesia, North Vietnam, Cambodia - and even Western-oriented or "neutral" nations of Asia.

It is essentially a 'mail order' business. Red Chinese agents approach governments they want trade ties with-both for business and political purposes-and offer to sell them goods from a large catalogue. They say, "Buy now, pay later."

This appeals to the Asians because they, like American consumers, want the goods-and they hope "something will turn up" to provide the cash to pay later.

The problem for the Free World is that when these nations cannot "pay later" and the Red Chinese decide to "repossess" the goods bought on "time." what the Reds take will be the nations' freedom and not the goods.

This, like Russian aid programs, is conducted at the expense of the home folks. But the home folks do not have any say in the matter, so the Red governments find it unnecessary to worry about opposition.

The Communists Lave an advantage in this. But the West has other advantages—such as the wherewithal to provide goods beyond the ability of China and Russia. Trade is a weapon in the cold war which the West must use more

Inflation

The really big and devastating problem that the American people face is inflation. What it really amounts to is that consumer's prices have doubled since 1939. According to the Committee for Economic ourselves." He then outlined the Development, ". . . During 1956 and 1957 alone, the consumer price index rose 6 per cent-a rate which, if continued, would double the price level in 23 years."

What this means, in simple language, is that the value of the dollar as a means of exchange is constantly going down and that therefore the standard of ife will ultimately also go down, if not altogether in he quantity of goods consumed by the individual, certainly in the quality not only of goods but also of

The capitalist system has two justifications:

1. That it produces a constantly rising standard of living-the greatest good for the numberas a result of constant competition in a free

2. That because the individual possesses freedom of economic action, he also possesses freedom in all other phases of life, such as thought, speech, religion, movement, research, teaching, etc.

If the capitalist system bogs down in these two aspects, it fails completely and some other system of life will take its place. There are many systems of life; there are many mixtures of systems. For instance, Soviet Russia which regards itself as a socialist state employs the wage incentives of capitalism and in its international trade is shifting over, to a degree, from the barter methods of socialism to a gold ex-

Elliott V. Bell, Chairman of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, Inc., and an expert on banking, referring to a CED discussion on the subject of inflation,

"I do not believe that this policy statement comes to grips with the real difficulties of the inflation situation. There is no real effort to say why the policies of recent years have so signally failed to defend us against inflation. If we cannot even agree on where we failed, I do not think we can get very far in prescribing a recipe for

The reason, I think, that many knowledgeable men, even experts, fail to agree on a possible cure for inflation or on the causes for any economic disturbance in our society, is that they do not agree as to what our society is. We speak of it as a democracy, as a republic, as a country in which private enterprise prevails. None of these words or phrases correctly describes the American way of life although all of them do to a certain degree. When, for instance, we say that private enterprise prevails, that is true, but public enterprise is growing apace. And in private enterprise, big business is squeezing small business which is the social core of private enterprise. And as big business grows, it becomes as bureaucratic as government. Bureaucracy usually leads to stagnation, to a substitution of forms for thought; to a lessening of initiative and competition. In many instances, big business hires outside policy advisers, outside economists, outside publicity men to think out the social nature of the business. These outsiders often form a bridge among similar companies to eliminate competition. Without competition there can be no capitalism. The essential differences between capitalism and socialism is competition in a free market.

Thus, it can be said that in the United States, while many groups, official and unofficial, have tried to study the nature and causes of inflation, no group, except perhaps the Rockefeller Brothers panel, has approached the problem from the basic standpoint as to whether it is wise or possible or probable for the United States to remain a capitalis-

This much we have ourselves witnessed: two world wars, a prolonged depression, a shift in population from rural to urban areas, a smaller war in Korea. and the need for the enormous cost of permanent preparation for war. These may be the principal causes for the present inflation; they are not the only

The social effects of inflation are more complex and ugly than the immediate economic effects. For instance, all forms of service in the home have practically disappeared from middle class American life, which is reflected in the vogue of do-it-yourself operations and a consumption of the leisure time of male and female workers in the type of chores for which numerous devices were expected to be the savior.

Business Lobbyists Nearly Inserted Ripper' Clause Into Pension Bill

WASHINGTON - Big business lobbyists came within two votes of putting over a "ripper" amendment, requiring that labor unions only, and not employers, disclose the financial operations of employe pension and welfare funds. The amendment, offered by GOP Congressman William Ayres of Ohio, was beaten after a hot flareup behind the closed doors of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Democratic Congressman Ludwig Teller of New York and Stewart Udall of Arizona vigorously objected that Ayres was trying to exempt 90 per cent of labor's' pension funds, which are operated by corporations and insurance companies. Ayres replied that employers contributed all the money to these employe

"Well, that's debatable," shot back Democrat Lee Metcalf of Montana, "since the contributions are indirect wages, or fringe benefits in lieu of wages. Everyone here knows that this proposed exemption is an attempt to penalize labor unions by forcing them to publicly report their pension and welfare funds, while letting employers off the hook.

ginia, contended that employes have every right to a public accounting of pension funds, whether operated by employers or labor unions. The solvency of such funds, he said, will determine how much money will be available for future retirement benefits.

"It's rumored the National Steel Corporation is using its employe pension fund to acquire control of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company," Bailey declared. "That may be all right. I'm not saying there is anything wrong about it, or that it isn't a sound business proposition. But the National Steel employes are entitled to know what is happening to their pension fund, the same as the employes of General Electric or any other company have a right to know about how their retirement funds are being safeguarded.' In the end Ayres' proposal lost -15 to 13. All Republicans present voted to exempt business, and all Democrats, except Chairman Graham Barden of North come to New York. Carolina, voted against.

Nixon Confers With Critic

Two men who don't agree on domestic policies, Vice President Nixon, Republican, and Congressman Charles Porter of Oregon, Democrat, sat down in a private, personal conference the other day in the interests of improving our Latin American good-neighbor policy.

One of them had been stoned and spat upon when he arrived in Caracas. The other, a short time after the Nixon visit, had addressed a crowd of 20,000 people in Caracas and was hailed as a hero.

The difference was that Congressman Porter has campaigned vigorously against Generalissimo Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and against other Latin dictators. Nixon, on the other hand, has gone along with State Department policy of doing business with the dictators and was photographed some time ago in a fond embrazzo with dictator Trujilio.

However, Nixon has now come out for a new American policy of discouraging dictators and seemed delighted to sit down with the anti-dictator Congressman from Oregon to discuss future moves in Latin America.

Congressman Porter proposed that washington go out of its way to encourage democratic movements: first by having Eisenhower make a speech encouraging

the new democratic regime in Venezuela; second by having Eisenhower make a speech commending the Colombia government, which has thrown out a dictator to elect a new democratic regime.

Navy Bands To Latins

Nixon and Porter also discussed the idea of sending the Navy band to Latin America, a noncontroversial gesture to which the State Department has already given its blessing, although it hasn't been able to settle the more controversial problem of raising the money to pay for the band's transportation.

Nixon liked an idea proposed by Porter that five delegates from every Latin-American country attend a meeting under the auspices of New York University on democracy. It was pointed out that a lot of governments are just learning about democracy and that it would be a good idea to have such leading Latin Americans as ex-President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, the first Ecuadoran President to hold office for a full term without revolution, Several trends toward democracy have taken place in Latin America recently, including free municipal elections in Paraguay and Nicaragua and a much greater freedom of the press in Nicaragua. Porter's idea is to emphasize these democratic trends and encourage them.

Vice President Nixon is working with Ford Frick on a plan to send a baseball team to Caracas and also on a plan to bring delegates from Latin America to a youth conference in the United States. Referring to his recent unpleasant experiences in Latin America, Nixon said: "You've got to take chances once in a while. You can't gain good will unless you mingle with people."

Commander Wilfred E. Fleshman, Jacksonville, Fla. - Many thanks for the additional information about the naval officers who have flown from the Navy's first airplane carrier, the USS Langley. I am delighted to know that you made the last landing aboard the Langley and that other officers who operated from the Langley still in the Navy are: Admirals Thomas H. Robbins, Dan Gallery, William O. Burch, Frank Akers and Kenneth Craig; with Captains George A. Hatton, oseph A. Jaap, and John D. Lamade.

Eisenhower Administration Misleads The Public

The time has come, once again, to take a very grave step in this space. It is time to say quite bluntly that the Eisenhower administration is guilty of gross untruth concerning the national defense of the United States. The false claims were not succinctly put by the President himself in his last state of the nation message. "We have now," he told the country, "a broadly based and efficient defensive strength, including a great deterrent power ... but unless we act wisely and promptly, we could lose (the) capacity to deter attack or defend action he proposed to take and he concluded with this promise: "We intend to assure that our vigilance, power and technical excellence keep abreast of any realistic threat that we face."

Either the President was consciously misleading the nation, or he silently decided to break his promise later on, or he has been misinformed about the facts. The third alternative is not only preferable; it is also highly probable. But that does not change the hard facts about which the President has been misinformed. Nothing will change them but a vastly greater national effort to "keep abreast" of the "realistic threat we face."

The time of deadly danger will begin soon, during the period the Pentagon calls "the gap"—the years between 1960 through 1963 or 1964. Massive orders for hardware must be placed immediately-indeed they should have been placed last winter-if we are going to make the feeblest pretense of "keeping abreast" during the years of the gap.

The prospective results of our present, fantastically inadequate effort were given in detail in the last report in this space. They may be summarized

2. That because the individual possesses freedom of economic action, he also possesses freedom in all other phases of life, such as thought, speech, religion, movement, research, teaching, etc.

If the capitalist system bogs down in these two aspects, it fails completely and some other system of life will take its place. There are many systems of life; there are many mixtures of systems. For instance, Soviet Russia which regards itself as a socialist state employs the wage incentives of capitalism and in its international trade is shifting over, to a degree, from the barter methods of socialism to a gold ex-

Elliott V. Bell, Chairman of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, Inc., and an expert on banking, referring to a CED discussion on the subject of inflation,

"I do not believe that this policy statement comes to grips with the real difficulties of the inflation situation. There is no real effort to say why the policies of recent years have so signally failed to defend us against inflation. If we cannot even agree on where we failed, I do not think we can get very far in prescribing a recipe for

The reason. I think, that many knowledgeable men, even experts, fail to agree on a possible cure for inflation or on the causes for any economic disturbance in our society, is that they do not agree as to what our society is. We speak of it as a democracy, as a republic, as a country in which private enterprise prevails. None of these words or phrases correctly describes the American way of life although all of them do to a certain degree. When, for instance, we say that private enterprise prevails, that is true, but public enterprise is growing apace. And in private enterprise, big business is squeezing small business which is the social

And as big business grows, it becomes as bureaucratic as government. Bureaucracy usually leads to stagnation, to a substitution of forms for thought; to a lessening of initiative and competition. In many instances, big business hires outside policy advisers, outside economists, outside publicity men to think out the social nature of the business. These outsiders often form a bridge among similar companies to eliminate competition. Without competition there can be no capitalism. The essential differences between capitalism and socialism is competition in a free market.

Thus, it can be said that in the United States, while many groups, official and unofficial, have tried to study the nature and causes of inflation, no group, except perhaps the Rockefeller Brothers panel, has approached the problem from the basic standpoint as to whether it is wise or possible or probable for the United States to remain a capitalis-

This much we have ourselves witnessed: two world wars, a prolonged depression, a shift in population from rural to urban areas, a smaller war in Korea, and the need for the enormous cost of permanent preparation for war. These may be the principal causes for the present inflation; they are not the only

The social effects of inflation are more complex and ugly than the immediate economic effects. For instance, all forms of service in the home have pracdisanneared from middle class American life which is reflected in the vogue of do-it-yourself operations and a consumption of the leisure time of male and female workers in the type of chores for which numerous devices were expected to be the savior.

Wonder What Got Into That Donkey?

Ripper' Clause Into Pension Bill

WASHINGTON - Big business lobbyists came within two votes of putting over a "ripper" amendment, requiring that labor unions only, and not employers, disclose the financial operations of employe pension and welfare funds. The amendment, offered by GOP Congressman William Ayres of Ohio, was beaten after a hot flareup behind the closed doors of the House Education and Labor Committee. Democratic Congressman Ludwig Teller of New York and Stewart Udall of Arizona vigorously objected that Ayres was trying to exempt 90 per cent of labor's' pension funds, which are operated by corporations and insurance companies. Ayres replied that employers contributed all the money to these employe funds.

"Well, that's debatable," shot back Democrat Lee Metcalf of Montana, "since the contributions are indirect wages, or fringe benefits in lieu of wages. Everyone here knows that this proposed exemption is an attempt to penalize labor unions by forcing them to publicly report their pension and welfare funds, while letting employers off the hook.

ginia, contended that employes have every right to a public accounting of pension funds, whether operated by employers or labor unions. The solvency of such funds, he said, will determine how much money will be available for future retirement benefits.

"It's rumored the National Steel Corporation is using its employe pension fund to acquire control of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company," Bailey declared. "That may be all right. I'm not saying there is anything wrong about it, or that it isn't a sound business proposition. But the National Steel employes are entitled to know what is bappening to their pension fund, the same as the employes of General Electric or any other company have a right to know about how their retirement funds are being safeguarded.

In the end Ayres' proposal lost -15 to 13. All Republicans present voted to exempt business, and all Democrats, except Chairman Graham Barden of North Carolina, voted against.

Nixon Confers With Critic

Two men who don't agree on domestic policies. Vice President Nixon, Republican, and Congressman Charles Porter of Oregon, Democrat, sat down in a private, personal conference the other day in the interests of improving our Latin American good-neighbor policy.

One of them had been stoned and spat upon when he arrived in Caracas. The other, a short time after the Nixon visit, had addressed a crowd of 20,000 people in Caracas and was hailed as a hero.

The difference was that Congressman Porter has campaigned vigorously against Generalissimo Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and against other Latin dictators. Nixon, on the other hand, has gone along with State Department policy of doing business with the dictators and was photographed some time ago in a fond embrazzo with dictator Trujilio.

However, Nixon has now come out for a new American policy of discouraging dictators and seemed delighted to sit down with the anti-dictator Congressman from Oregon to discuss future moves in Latin America.

Congressman Porter proposed that Washington go out of its way to encourage democratic movements: first by having Eisenhower make a speech encouraging

the new democratic regime in Venezuela: second by having Eisenhower make a speech commending the Colombia government, which has thrown out a dictator to elect a new democratic regime.

Navy Bands To Latins

Nixon and Porter also discussed the idea of sending the Navy band to Latin America. a noncontroversial gesture to which the State Department has already given its blessing, although it hasn't been able to settle the more controversial problem of raising the money to pay for the band's transportation.

Nixon liked an idea proposed by Porter that five delegates from every Latin-American country attend a meeting under the auspices of New York University on democracy. It was pointed out that a lot of governments are just learning about democracy and that it would be a good idea to have such leading Latin Americans as ex-President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, the first Ecuadoran President to hold office for a full term without revolution. come to New York.

Several trends toward democracy have taken place in Latin America recently, including free municipal elections in Paraguay and Nicaragua and a much greater freedom of the press in Nicaragua. Porter's idea is to emphasize these democratic trends and encourage them Vice President Nixon is working with Ford Frick on a plan to send a baseball team to Caracas and also on a plan to bring delegates from Latin America to a youth conference in the United States. Referring to his recent unpleasant experiences in Latin America, Nixon said: "You've got to take chances once in a while. You can't gain good will unless you mingle with people."

Commander Wilfred E. Fleshman, Jacksonville, Fla. - Many thanks for the additional information about the naval officers who have flown from the Navy's first airplane carrier, the USS Langley, I am delighted to know that you made the last landing aboard the Langley and that other officers who operated from the Langley still in the Navy are: Admirals Thomas H. ### Eisenhower Administration Misleads The Public siles will alter the balance in WASHINGTON By Joseph Alsop 1964. And the first solid-fueled

The time has come, once again, to take a very grave step in this space. It is time to say quite bluntly that the Eisenhower administration is guilty of gross untruth concerning the national defense of the United States. The false claims were not succinctly put by the President himself in his last state of the nation message.

"We have now," he told the country, "a broadly based and efficient defensive strength, including a great deterrent power

. . . but unless we act wisely and promptly, we could lose (the) capacity to deter attack or defend ourselves." He then outlined the action he proposed to take and he concluded with this promise: "We intend to assure that our vigilance, power and technical excellence keep abreast of any realistic threat that we face.

Either the President was consciously misleading the nation, or he silently decided to break his promise later on, or he has been misinformed about the facts. The third alternative is not only preferable; it is also highly probable. But that does not change the hard facts about which the President has been misinformed. Nothing will change them but a vastly greater national effort to "keep abreast" of the "realistic threat we face." The time of deadly danger will begin soon, during the period the Pentagon calls "the gap"-the years between 1960 through 1963 or 1964. Massive orders for hardware must be placed immediately-indeed they should have been placed last winter-if we are going to make the feeblest pretense of "keeping abreast"

during the years of the gap. The prospective results of our present, fantastically inadequate effort were given in detail in the last report in this space. They may be summarized as follows:

FIRST, we shall retain a modest margin of superiority in manned bombers throughout the years of the gap - unless the Kremlin puts its new, very longrange, supersonic jet bombers into early production, as must of course be expected. (It is not expected by the Administration. but all the Administration's expectations are based on the kind of reading of the grim intelligence that experience has repeatedly warned against.

SECOND, the NATO estimates give the Soviets a strength in air defense that is at least two of superiority will be maintained This means, of course, that the balance of manned bomber strength must be weighted in favor of the Soviets; for our manned bombers are now increasingly vulnerable to interception by the more advanced defensive weapons.

THIRD, we shall be sending a few intermediate range missiles to our NATO allies in the gap years. Meanwhile the Soviets will acquire between 1,000 and 2.000 ballistic missiles with suitable ranges to neutralize or destroy all our overseas air bases. on which the striking power of our manned bomber force heavily depends. And fourth, the U.S. vs. U.S.S.R score in operational intercontinental missiles in the gap years will be US. 0 ICBMs vs. U.S.S.R. 100 ICBMs in 1959; times, if not three or four times U.S. 30 ICBMs vs U.S.S.R. 500 greater than our own air defense ICBMs in 1960; U.S. 70 ICBMs vs. S. 130 ICBMs (plus a few submarine-borne Polaris, perhaps) vs. U.S.S.R. 1500 ICBMs in 1962; and U.S. 130 ICBMS (plus more Polaris) vs U.S.S.R. 2000 ICBMs in 1963.

The Body's Salt And Water Supplies In Summer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The body does not demand different foods or vitamins during hot weather. A balanced diet is best but most of us feel cooler by eating less. Food adds energy in much the same way as coal increases the temperature of the fire in the furnace.

The situation is different in regard to water and salt, which are lost from the skin and lungs as part of the cooling process of the body. Heat stroke ensues if this mechanism is not functioning properly. Many adults sweat off 5 to 10 quarts of water on a

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Rose Sweigert, who passed away August 2, From this world of pain and sorrow To the land of peace and rest To the land of peace and rest;
God has taken you, dear loved one,
Where you have found eternal rest.
The road into the sunset
Is the one we all must tread.
And though it brings us sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead.
There is always comfort knowing
We will meet again some day—
When all grief and pain are over

When all grief and pain are over

In loving memory of Mrs. Rose Sweigert, who passed away August 2,

In Memoriam

From this world of pain and sorrow To the land of peace and rest God has taken you, dear loved one. Where you have found eternal rest. The road into the sunset Is the one we all must tread.

And though it brings us sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead.
There is always comfort knowing
We will meet again some day—

When all grief and pain are over And the clouds have rolled away. MOTHER, FATHER, CHILDREN

Library Advised Budget Will Be Cut 10 Per Cent

Meeting Of All Units In County Suggested

Officials of the Cumberland Free Public Library were told yesterday that immediate financial aid is not available from the county and that it will face the same 10 per cent budget cuts as other departments of the City of Cumberland.

In the meanwhile, efforts will be made to get representatives of all libraries in the county together to begin formulating some satisfactory plan for financing library services in this county.

Financing of the Cumberland Free Public Library during the current year was discussed during a meeting of the Mayor and council and the Allegany County Commissioners in City Hall yes-

The facts of Cumberland's fiscal situation were explained by William R. Carscaden, city attorney, who said everyone knows of the fine work of the library and wants it to prosper.

He said that last year, when the city allotted $30,000 to the library, it had begun the year with a $237,000 surplus. This year, he said, the surplus will be about $110,000, which means the city operated in the red to the tune of about $127,000

Income, he said, will be about the same as last year, and since operating costs will not decrease, services must be cut.
